Day 02 : Shanghai City Sightseeing Tour

In the morning, you will visit Yu Garden, also known as Yuyuan Garden. It is respected as a major architectural accomplishment of the south Yangtze River. Once arrived, you will feel the balance between the trees, ponds, and pavilions.

Just outside of Yu Garden is the The City God Temple Market. In ancient times, the temple was a worship place dedicated to the "Gold Mountain" or Jinshan in Chinese. Now it attracts millions of visitors each year to visit, eat, and shop. You can easily buy some local gifts in this market as souvenirs or try a few snacks and skip lunch.

The next stop will be Shanghai's Urban Planning Hall. Here you can truly grasp the grandeur and size of Shanghai. View a massive city model and see what plans lie on Shanghai's horizon.

Having seen the city up close, now have a look from up high! Head over to the Shanghai World Financial Center and rise up to its observation deck. Look out and view the city; the nearby Pearl Oriental TV Tower may appear to lose its dominance when you are looking down from the tallest building in China.

Once you have planted your feedback on the ground in Pudong Shanghai, take a short drive to reach the busiest street in China, Nanjing Road. Nanjing Road runs from People's Park all the way to the Huangpu River and the Bund. Full of famous domestic and international brands, it makes a great place for some modern shopping, people watching, and the feel of Shanghai life.

Once you reach the Bund, stop and take some photos as the sun will be setting soon. A great time to enjoy the magic of the Huangpu River. If you prefer, you can have dinner while taking a cruise or enjoy an excellent Shanghai acrobatic. No matter your preference, your Shanghai guide will help to make all a reality.

Day 03 : Zhujiajiao Water Town Half Day Sightseeing Tour - Travel To Guilin

Different from Yu Gardens, this ancient town is filled with many elaborate bridges, natural gardens, and streets mixed with water on all sides. Immerse yourself in this picturesque town.

On the return to Shanghai, board an afternoon flight to Guilin, where you will begin to explore a completely different side of China.

Day 04 : Guilin Half Day Li River Cruise - Yangshuo Bicycle Trip

After arriving in southern China, it may take a bit of adjustment when comparing Guilin to Shanghai. These opposites are one of the elements that attract many to this tour.

Guilin's mountain and water scenery is claimed to be the best in the world; and a cruise down the Li River is the best way to enjoy these beautiful views. During your cruise, you will see sharp-edged hills like broken teeth, crystal clear water, and peaceful villages. Stop and try to see if you can count all nine horses in the famous Nine Horse Fresco of Guilin. The cruise lasts for about four hours, with lunch served on the boat.

Upon docking in Yangshuo, disembark from your cruise and see Yangshuo's paradise up close. For bicycle lovers, the next part of the tour may be your personal highlight. After a twenty-minute drive along Yangshuo roads, you will arrive in a tranquil world. Mount your bicycle and peddle along into China's countryside. An amazing chance to visit local farmers' homes to witness their way of living.

Stop and talk with locals, with the help of your guide, along with take photos of traditional Chinese countryside. Depending on your fitness level the hike will take about four to five hours.

In the afternoon, you will return to Yangshuo and visit famous West street. Considered the busiest and most famous street in Yangshuo it is only .5 km. (.31 mi.) long, but extremely famous.
